

We're looking for a Commercial graduate solicitor

Naturally, we want someone with a fantastic work ethic

Christchurch - permanent

We relish the enthusiasm and fresh viewpoints that graduates bring to our culture. Our programme is well organised, dynamic and rewarding and we have a fantastic opportunity for a graduate to join our commercial / property / private client team in the Christchurch office in 2018.

Our comprehensive graduate programme is designed to give you the best possible start in your career. It includes:

- Ongoing training, education, and constructive feedback
- Regular peer-group meetings
- Multiple levels of support from peers, colleagues, partners and other professionals
- Support and payment for the completion of your professional study
- Challenging and interesting work opportunities, including interaction with clients from early on
- Competitive remuneration and benefit package

You'll receive challenging and interesting work and find yourself working closely with our partners on real legal issues with fantastic clients from day one.

Our partners are accessible, with time specifically allocated to developing the capabilities of their teams. We also offer on-going training and education as well as excellent peer support and mentoring. It's not all work though, the office has an active social committee and sporting opportunities making DC an excellent place to embark on your legal career.

You will need to be a well-rounded individual, have strong academics; excel in your attention to detail and take pride in producing top quality work. Naturally you will have a professional attitude, display initiative and have a strong work ethic. In return we can provide you with challenging and interesting work, great support, on-going training and the benefit of working alongside a number of respected and inspiring Partners.

If this sounds like you then please apply to Liz Shaw by email at careers@duncancotterill.com by Friday 8 December 2017.

Moving on tomorrow.
